U.S. IMPLEMENTATION, OVERSIGHT AND ENFORCEMENT OF THE EU-U.S. AND SWISS-U.S. PRIVACY SHIELD FRAMEWORKS

January 2017 to May 2018

NATIONAL SECURITY ASPECTS

1 ROBUST LIMITATIONS AND SAFEGUARDS

- ✓ Intelligence Transparency. The Intelligence Community (IC) has reaffirmed its commitment to civil liberties, privacy and transparency by updating and reissuing its foundational policy on those topics—Intelligence Community Directive 107. The IC continues to release volumes of information about how it implements national security authorities, and recently launched www.intelligence.gov to serve as a new digital front door to the IC.

2 INDEPENDENT OVERSIGHT

- ✓ Privacy and Civil Liberties Oversight Board (PCLOB). President Trump has nominated three individuals to the PCLOB with the aim of restoring the independent agency to quorum status as it fulfills its mission of ensuring that Federal government efforts to prevent terrorism are balanced with the need to protect privacy and civil liberties.

3 INDIVIDUAL REDRESS

- ✓ Ombudsperson Mechanism. The U.S. Government has created and fully implemented an unprecedented independent review channel for EU and Swiss individuals regarding the transfer of their personal data to the United States pursuant to the Framework or other EU-approved data transfer mechanisms—the Privacy Shield Ombudsperson mechanism. Ambassador Judith G. Garber currently serves as Privacy Shield Ombudsperson. She is among the highest-ranking members of the U.S. diplomatic corps—with over 30 years of experience—and was confirmed to the rank of Career Minister by the U.S. Senate in 2017.

4 U.S. LEGAL DEVELOPMENTS

- ✓ FISA Amendments Reauthorization Act of 2017. Congress reauthorized FISA Section 702 in January 2018, maintaining all elements on which the European Commission's Privacy Shield adequacy determination was based, and enhancing the advisory and oversight functions of the PCLOB (in addition to other reforms strengthening privacy protection). U.S. Government officials have since informed the European Commission about the material developments in the law relevant to Privacy Shield.
